“International Magnaproducts, Inc. has enjoyed much exposure through our ad listing on the Industrial Quick Search directory. We have been listed with them for a while and really appreciate the extra efforts that IQS puts forth. Heather Stanley at IQS posted an article about IMI a while ago that brought exposure for us to new businesses and customers, which is the best return on investment we can hope for! I really enjoy their redesigned web traffic analytics and reports. The information they provide makes my job much easier to show management how many visitors have looked at our ad, how many come back, who they are, etc. Their new charts are very visually informative, and easy to interpret. I would recommend Industrial Quick Search to anyone looking for broad exposure in the marketplace. Thanks IQS!”

“When we began the transition to the on-line advertising marketplace in 2002, we researched the best resources, formats and techniques to reach prospective customers for our custom metal forming business. We connected with Mike Mieresonne of Industrial Quick Search (IQS). The broad range of market savvy experience was very helpful in complimenting the marketing efforts we employ. As the digital marketplace has evolved, IQS has been prompt to update content and provide other helpful guidance so that our efforts remain relevant in the fluid, mobile age. We find their responsiveness very timely and their pricing competitive. We recommend working with Mike and his team for honest guidance to compliment your marketing efforts.”

“Very pleased with my experience. I worked with Janet to set up a premium listing for generating leads for our business. The experience was very simple and straight forward. Ultimately, we decided that IQS wasn't the best place to promote our products and services (we work in a very specialized industry). They have a great site and fantastic customer service, but this just wasn't the right advertising channel for us. Check them out! It may be the perfect fit for your company!”

- Kevin Kirkwood, NETZSCH Premier Technologies LLC

“I have been a client of IQS for over 10 years. I love how simple and straight forward their advertising campaigns and pricing structures are. They do not muddy the process with myriads of categories and sub categories that in the end are very difficult to monitor for effectiveness. They are very effective and have netted greater results over similar forms of advertising. My account rep, Janet, has consistently expressed a sincere interest in helping me further my online presence. She has shared much of her expertise above and beyond what I pay for in terms of advertising. I highly recommend IQS. They are a great company to work with.”
